Lacson won't surrender

Robredo dismisses bounty on Ping

By Gil C. Calasagman Jr.
and Alvin Pique

FUGITIVE SENATOR Ponfiko Lacson will surface only if the warrant for his arrest is lifted, his lawyer told reporters yesterday.

Lawyer Alan Pollador claimed ignorance of the whereabouts of Lacson, who, Justice Secretary Leila de Lima told on Tuesday, was hiding in the country.

He said that his last communication with his client was in December 2009, and that his names were being made in consultation with the senator's family.

Despite a request from the Philippine National Police and De Lima's endorsement, Interior Secretary Jeanne Robredo is not inclined to approve the proposed P2-million bounty on Lacson's head.

The reward may neither be "worth it" or "overseen," Robredo yesterday told the Inquirer. He added: "They have been saying we are close to getting him (Lacson). Then what might be needed is for law enforcement units hunting him down to just do the job given to them."

De Lima had said the proposed reward might help hasten Lacson's arrest, as surrender.

Lacson has been on the lam since January, days before the Manila Regional Trial Court Branch 18 issued the warrant in connection with the 2009 abduction and murder of publicist Salvador (Dado) and his driver, Raymond Carballo.

"[Lacson] has made it clear that as long as the warrant is pending, he is not going to surrender," Lacson said.

ANARCHY ON THE STREETS Police use a water hose to disperse stone-throwing "kulang" drivers who parked their three-wheeled motorized pedicabs in the middle of the street. The defiant action was in protest of the Manila City Hall ban on their operation on traffic-choked major thoroughfares.

'Dirty Harry' cracks down on 'kuliglig' in Manila

By Jaymie T. Ganti

"DIRTY HARRY" pretensions began a crackdown on the new "King of the Road"—motorized pedicabs, called kuliglig, that are emblematic of the dramatic deterioration of the country's public transportation system.

Police, implementing Mayor Alfredo Lim's Executive Order No. 17 banning the three-wheeled motorized contraptions on main roads in Manila, started 80 driving the decrees near 168 Mall in Divisoria and Legarda.

Drivers of the risk-shades—started after the transportation of the region, Crispin—were equally determined to fight the measure, accusing the government of depriving them of their livelihood.

"We are not robbing them of their livelihood, but they have to follow the law," Lim said.

Tired, hungry and angry hundreds of them parked their

Gov't plans to limit vehicles on Edsa

By Leila B. Salazar

THE OFF-CONGESTED Edsa may soon be declared polluted, as a "nonattainment area," to limit the public vehicles allowed to use it and the factories built along it, Environment Secretary Ramon Paje said yesterday.

Paje said the move was intended to limit the sources of pollution that could further lead up Edsa's already dirty air.

He has ordered the Environ-

Some are 25th anniversary stories that are impacting on how we cover unfolding events; some are mark-the-day stories that become talk of the town types; others are turning-point stories that have changed the landscape of history; still others, big or small, seize the heart and never let go.

Top business paper not a business paper

By Danilo L. Lacas

THE Inquirer is not—strictly speaking—a business newspaper.

But based on the market-leading stories that it has published, it could very well be one of the best business newspapers in the country, as far as covering the most important issues in the world of business is concerned.

One reason for this is the fact that the Inquirer, because of its market position, has consistently been able to attract the best talent from the large pool of Filipino professionals.

Every time there is a vacancy at the business section, word gets around the industry fast, and a long queue forms (figuratively speaking) for the few available slots along the tightly knit community of business reporters in the country.

Thus, the heads of the tion—business editor Raul Manzano and assistant business editor Gerie Nemes—are able to select the best candidates to assign the right writing tasks to reporters.

"This is where business reporters aspire to be," Manzano told me during my second of three on-air interviews when I applied for a job in 2005. "What will you be able to

Church questions RH survey: You can't poll morality

had read in previous issues.

He acknowledged though that the Church needs to identify its information down inside the bill.

"Obviously morality can't be based on a survey. If at all else survey results are true, then the more that we have in explicit text requirements for the bill to the people," Guanio told reporters.

The Pulse Asia survey conducted from Oct. 28 to 29 found that 59 percent of Filipinos supported the RH measure. It also found that 61 percent of Filipinos were members of the Church.

Guanio advised against the holding of surveys on the bill, saying the results may unduly influence lawmakers as they deliberate on the measure.

"Our intention is that they are trying to influence the legislators. They have to discuss the merits of the bill and not the merits of its supporters," he said.

Mind-conditioning

The survey might also create a state of mind-conditioning while the debate on the bill is ongoing, he said.

Guanio said one good thing about the survey was that it shows voters were aware of the discussions regarding the measure.

With President Aquino's support for the measure, proponents had predicted that the House would pass the legislation by the end of the first regular session of the 15th Congress in June next year.

The bill mandates that the state offer medical, natural and family planning methods to enable couples to plan the number and spacing of their children.

From Rome, CICP president and Training Bishop Hermenegildo said the CICP was determined to proceed with its opposition to the bill.

Pope's support

In a statement, Delaunoy, who was with several Filipino bishops for their annual visit to the Vatican, hailed Pope Benedict XVI's recent support for the CICP on its campaign against the RH bill.

He recommended the Church in the Philippines list working to do its part in support of human life from conception until natural death, the defense of the integrity of marriage and the family and in the education of the youth, particularly Delaunoy said.

Delaunoy said the Pope's message is that "affirms the CICP's research results in research and stand up for the fragility of life in women and one of women."

The CICP board said the Pope outlined not only the Philippine bishops, priests and religious, but also lay people for working together in helping promote a just social order — accompanied reference to the Church's belief for the rejection of the bill.

Don't be swayed

Senator President Juan Ponce Enrile cautioned the government against adopting the present approach to measure based on the Pulse Asia survey.

"If you are a politician and a leader, you have to respect public opinion, but don't be swayed by public opinion because public opinion might not be correct," he told reporters.

Enrile also acknowledged that the Ignite in the Pulse Asia survey might be "true and solid."

"Our conviction, it's our duty to convince that law and make a judgment on it based on other factors that may not have been taken into account by the people who were polled because those people have no deep notion of what the RH bill means to a lot of people," he said.

Human hearing

In the House of Representatives, Internal Rep. Popolino Espino, chair of the committee on population and family relations, said the president of whom the Senate would be held after all necessary persons shall have stated their position.

At the hearing, however, in testimony of the Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines expressed Ignite's concerns that the bill, House Bill No. 76, was poorly presented and proposed.

"It's probably we don't see a clear statement that it will protect the early embryonic life from the moment of conception," she said. "She said it is difficult that it's poor because because the bill is a question of health, and on issue of health, and we've based the resolutions on the profile of anti-abortionists," she said.

Supporters of bill

The Philippine Commission on Women, Commission on Population, the Commission on Human Rights, Institute for Social Studies Action, University of the Philippines Center for Women's Studies, among others, expressed support for the measure, and recommended its immediate passage.

Ignite's version of the Philippine Commission on Women said, "We ask the legislators to encourage its passage. They should not have any doubts on the bill. Each day of delay costs 17 maternal deaths — due to pregnancy-related causes. We believe that this will save a lot of women's lives, so

Bishop leads bikers in call for peace in Mindanao

DAVAO CITY.—Bikers from various parts of Mindanao gathered at the site of the Magdalenian massacre on Monday as part of the Mindanao Peace of Mindanao initiative that involved protesting the violence in Mindanao.

"It was meant to highlight the emotional suffering of the victims of the Magdalenian massacre," Bishop said.

Diocesan priest David P. said that the bikers for peace were from various parts of Mindanao, including Christians and Muslims.

"We need this to rebuild the damaged image of our province and we call for justice for all the victims," he said.

All faiths, priests, pastors and nuns joined hands in offering prayers in the gray sky in an evening setting in Manila.

The participants also signed at the entrance to a makeshift shelter "space for peace" in all places of worship, schools and offices of health centers and hospitals in Manila.

"We advance peace and personal life, this is what every citizen is practicing," Bishop said.

At Manila, P. said that he had led thousands of bikers in Davao to call on the Aquino administration to show its ability to protect the lives of its citizens.

Good Samaritans plan road to remote school

By Delfin T. Malibon Jr.
Luzon City

INEED, there is no mountain high enough for these Good Samaritans who offered to help Virgen Ilustrado School in a remote province by building a feeder road leading to the remote barangay road, 6 kilometers away.

"I can't believe it. What's happening over a miracle," Alvin Alonzo, a school teacher, said over the phone on Saturday.

He confirmed that he had expected assistance after the state go home for himself 100 students was reported in the Inquirer and a Manila-based television station in September. "But not this big," he said.

Alonzo, 32, said four representatives of a local group from Baguio City traveled to the Province of Benguet last week and offered to construct the feeder road at no cost. The Inquirer contacted the leader of the group, but he requested that his name and that of his friend be withheld.

No hidden agenda

"My friend simply wants to help. We don't have any hidden agenda," he said over the phone on Monday morning.

Other offers to help the school, Alonzo said, were made by the provincial government, but he said that the group would be distributed if it is to be a private-public partnership. A joint effort to help the school and its students, he said.

He explained that the state of Benguet would spend $100,000 to reach the project.

"If the government or anyone will also extend support for the state of Benguet, and other construction materials, they are all welcome," he added.

Virgen Ilustrado is 20 km from Baguio, but the road is a dirt road. It takes more than two hours of travel and journey time along 20 km of rugged roads to reach the place.

The road is the lifeline of the school, a source of income and food for the community.

The school is in the hands of San Andres, the most remote political territory of the Cordillera Region.

Alonzo accepted the assignment to teach in the area two years ago in a role as a private teacher. It served to challenge his devotion to his chosen profession.

The friend of the Good Samaritans estimated that the project would take several months to finish. Based on the group's survey, there were no existing roads at the school, he said.

"We will construct and build a road to the school," he said. "We will be ready to start any time, weather permits, and if the documents being prepared by Manila have been processed."

Local govt support

Alonzo said the group, which includes civil engineers, stayed in San Andres for several days and conducted an initial survey of the project. He said he immediately reported the offer to the barangay council and the municipal officials.

"They were all happy with the rest of the group and wanted to help support the project," he said.

To ensure the success of the project, Alonzo called on the assistance and support of Queen City School System and its former president, Alvin Alonzo, and the provincial board members.

"The generosity of the company is really something. That's why I'm calling all government officials who can help to give the Good Samaritans a hand by providing fuel and other needed materials," he added.

Two days after Alonzo's story was published, a representative from La Salle Green Hills also contacted the newspaper and reported how to reach the school.

Alonzo said a group from La Salle also showed up in San Andres and headed home, but he said he did not know where they went.

"I have learned that construction is a very hard job. The school is a very good place to work. The school is a very good place to work. The school is a very good place to work."

The day all will have Christmas with a night of computer work, Alonzo said. They will be ready to explore the world through the Internet highway.

God is good. He will bring in more good news for my students," Alonzo said.

Bar exams twice a year, why not?

THIS EFFORT to boost graduation rates calls for the holding of the bar examinations in three places, Cebu, Calabarzon and Manila, instead of having them only in Manila. The main objective of the proposal is to avoid overcrowding and overcrowded facilities at the bar site, and to enable bar candidates and their families to save on expenses.

The greater impact, the committee may illustrate the proposal to conduct the bar exams held in just six busy locations: Cebu, Calabarzon and Manila, instead of having them only in Manila and Cebu every year. The two-day bar exam is postponed after the last session in the United States, where most states conduct the exam twice a year. # Another and older 'Maguindanao massacre'

THE MAGUINDANAO massacre, described as the "worst massacre, including hundreds of killings in Philippine history," was 1 year earlier Nov. 23.

The apparent cause of the massacre is the long-standing conflict between the government and the MILF, which is more than 20 years old and also calls for open justice.

This is a clear massacre of the people of Maguindanao in the last 20 years. The massacre is a clear massacre of the people of Maguindanao in the last 20 years. The massacre is a clear massacre of the people of Maguindanao in the last 20 years.

Celtics strike back behind Rondo

CLEVELAND—Rajon Rondo scored a season-high 23 points to lead the Boston Celtics to their fourth straight win, a 106-87 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers in the NBA on Tuesday.

Rondo, who also had 12 assists, missed his first three shots before hitting 11 of 14 from 12 to help the Celtics build a 20-point lead in the fourth.

Chris Davis added 17 points and Kevin Garnett grabbed 10 rebounds as Boston avenged an early season loss to Cleveland. Andrew Wiggins and Daniel Gibson scored 16 apiece for the Cavaliers, who last beat the Miami Heat in Traffic Jam last week.

In Memphis, Tennessee, Mike Conley scored 18 of his season-high 26 points in the fourth quarter as the Grizzlies handed the Los Angeles Lakers their third straight loss, 98-96.

It's just the second three-game deal for the Lakers since they traded with Memphis for Pau Gasol to swap him up with Kobe Bryant in February 2008, and the team's first since March.

The Celtics were home since last season's loss and lost to Boston.

Bryant finished with season-high 29 points, but was 9-of-22 from the floor, including 3-of-8 from 3-point range. Jason Kidd had 15 points and 14 rebounds.

In New York, Austin Rivers scored 23 points as the Knicks broke a three-game losing streak in the second half to defeat the New Jersey Nets, 115-100.

Wilson Chandler added 27 points and 11 rebounds for the Knicks, who won for the second time in eight games, and improved to 9-10 against New York. He finished with 23 points, 17 assists and seven rebounds.

New Jersey point guard David Harris had 17 points on Chandler's basket that broke a 10-0 run on Chandler's clutch shot, part of a 14-0 start that gave the Knicks a 14-point lead.

Brook Lopez scored a season-high 26 points and Jordan Farmar had 17 for the Nets.

In Orlando, Florida, Paul Pierce scored 20 points and Michael Finley added 12 to lift the Magic over the struggling Detroit Pistons, 90-79.

Pierce also scored 13 points in a win against a Detroit franchise that has missed 10 home games in 11 seasons.

The Magic have won seven of their last eight games.

In Philadelphia, Steve Allen scored 20 points and Jon Haskins added 12 to lift the 76ers over the Brooklyn Nets, 90-79.

Philadelphia scored 22-10 in the fourth quarter to win the game after a 15-0 run that put the game away with 1:30 left.

Rizal governor wants dike built around lake

By Hilda Collaps

RIZAL GOVERNOR Gordon Ramos II has pushed for the construction of a road-like second dike around the Bay in place of the developing project which would cost the government more than P10 billion.

Ramos told the business that the dike, which he described as "just shore of a circumstantial road," would help prevent illegal activities from encroaching on the lake.

It would also prevent flooding in nearby areas since "the dike will serve as a physical barrier to prevent water from coming inland," he said.

Woman sells baby to pay off debts

By Kristine Felina Mangunoy

FOR SALE: A six-month-old baby for sale for only P2,500.

The police arrested the seller after a 23-year-old woman for selling a baby that had been entrusted to her by a relative.

During questioning, Maribel Ramos, a resident of Marikina, Calabarzon City, admitted that she sold the child because she desperately needed money to pay off her gambling debts.

Chief Insp. Mercedes Manzano, head of the Calabarzon City Police Substation 2, said that the baby's mother came to them for help after Ramos disappeared along with her six-month-old baby.

She added that she had entrusted the baby to Ramos because she had credits to her and she did not want to leave her child over in their house in Marikina, Calabarzon City.

The mother claimed that when the woman knew Ramos and her baby were creditors to her.

She said that she started to get worried when she found out that Ramos had lost a lot of money in a card game that day.

The police later found out that the baby had been sold to a woman named Rita who said she bought the baby from Ramos for only P2,500 because she had long wanted to have a child.

The baby was later returned to his mother.

Ramos said the dike project would cost the government around P10 billion (based on the estimate of the Department of Public Works and Highways).

Permanent solution

"According to [Public Works Secretary] (Rogelio) Sison, the President finds it expensive, but compared to the dike project, the government would only have to add around P1 billion to achieve a permanent solution," he added.

He said the project would also include the construction of a wastewater treatment plant in the vicinity of the road dike in addition to the planting of trees around the lake.

Caloocan bans watusi, piccolo

SMALL BUT verble.

Proclamations such as the popular "piccolo" and "watusi" have been banned in Caloocan City.

The local government imposed the ban to prevent injuries from fireworks that may affect or injure, especially children, as they celebrate the holiday season.

In a statement, Mayor Lito Lita "Bones" Pelaez directed the police and other concerned agencies to monitor markets and commercial establishments in the city so that appropriate charges could be filed against those caught selling and distributing the prohibited fireworks.

The ban also covers other fireworks like the "bongoy" and "totoy," among others. Attilio Pelaez Mangunoy

Those greedy eye doctors

WHEN SEN. ERIC LACSON was in the police service, he placed trust with other people's lives. Officials told even his abiding citizens, treatment at the mention of his name.

People who created Lacson, the son of the late, died peacefully without a word, got killed under mysterious circumstances, or sought refuge in other countries.

From the time he is in the city, the late Lacson is a figure in the city.

With a P1-million price on his head, some heavy-handed police are not to get his head off the ground.

There's been the late of Lacson's name.

When Sen. Colonel Lacson had finally wanted his son to be a chief of the Caloocan municipality (Caloocan) (Caloocan) chief, a child of a multi-millionaire businessman was killed.

It was the first time that a kidnapping for ransom, happened in the Caloocan City of the South in its history.

Lacson and his men were brought from Manila were quick to return the case.

They were experts in kidnapping for ransom.

As in the past, they took no prisoners in the Caloocan kidnapping.

People in Caloocan were afraid, but looking back, was it too much to ask for a few kidnapping kidnappers?

ON TARGET
KANNON
Taffo

months after he was assigned there?

Was it also too much of a coincidence that the former AL is still, whose husband was jailed at the Marikina Jail (MIRJ), last became Mrs. Alonzo Lacson?

Alonzo Lacson died when he was one way by a truck after his release from the MIRJ.

For two years now, I've held back medical minutes with my husband in three places—Marikina, Manila, Calabarzon City and Caloocan City.

The Marikina Jail (MIRJ) had been helped by some doctors and nurses from St. Luke's Medical Center.

The doctors and nurses, who belong to the hospital's Sugganjan Foundation, give free medical and surgical services to the poor.

But I cannot understand why eye doctors in Calabarzon City and Marikina City have not helped my husband and Sugganjan's offer to help in treating patients with cataracts and other eye ailments in their areas.

The same doctors of eye doctors in the two cities would not want to do their patients with eye ailments for free.

I've been told that Sugganjan operation, which takes only 10 to 20 minutes, costs a minimum of P20,000, an amount that poor patients can't afford.

"Thousands of old people suffer from cataracts, which blur their vision, and I want to contribute my share in helping restore their vision."

But Sugganjan and my husband can't do that if eye doctors in places where we conduct medical missions refuse to allow us to treat multi-eye patients.

Apparently, the provincial eye doctors want to remove the "eye doctors."

And what about that "eye doctors"?

A revenue director officer (RDO) of the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) owns a stationary commercial building on Davao Avenue in Marikina Park, Calabarzon City.

The building, worth at least P150 million, is under the name of a company owned by the RDO's family.

Where did he get all that money for the building's construction?

My BIR source says the RDO, in Calabarzon, with a BIR office in Davao, was involved in squandering money from a 50-year-old woman even when she had paid P200 million in real estate tax.

1. Chlorophyll a and b were determined in the whole cells by the method of Lichtenthal and Whistler (1973). The cell suspension was extracted with 80% methanol containing 0.1% hydrochloric acid. The extract was centrifuged at 1000g for 10 min and the supernatant was evaporated to dryness. The residue was dissolved in 100  $\mu$ l of 80% methanol and the absorbance was measured at 663 and 646 nm. The concentration of chlorophyll a and b was calculated from the absorbance values using the following equations:  $\text{Chlorophyll } a (\mu\text{g/ml}) = 12.7 \times \text{Absorbance at } 663 \text{ nm}$  and  $\text{Chlorophyll } b (\mu\text{g/ml}) = 22.9 \times \text{Absorbance at } 646 \text{ nm}$ .
